

The Raymond Baxter 7/05/18 Colston's Farm

Kettle – Fish

Colston's on Monday provided a very different challenge to Croglin 2 the day before. We have seen quite a bit of Colston's just recently and have a reasonable idea of what's lurking behind every tree but this time it was dry, very dry with plenty of grip – except, of course, when there wasn't.

Chalk – Cheese

A number of those happy few that attained their respective pinnacles on Sunday found themselves sliding down the ranks. Barry Hogg, Sunday's victor was in the situation where he had Natalie in the car, Joanne's daughter, who was passengering for the first time. Jeff had a strange attraction for trees, or was it the same tree – twice. Bryan Walker, Mike Salton and Bill Rhodes succumbed to the Hill 7 hiccup in the first round. Always a nuisance in a low scoring contest. Mike and Bill were sharing Lou Hayton, in a nice way, and I can't imagine a more energetic display of passengering without the use of pharmaceuticals. Some of us need help just getting a leg into the footwell. Brian Thornton had a steady day but having said that, Brian always looks steady but he looked especially steady here. Richard Howell didn't find the magic of the previous day but he did OK. Maybe you could sign Keith up on loan?

Horse - Colour

The big improvers were Peter Fensom who won overall and Stuart Beare who was second and A Class winner. Peter had one of those days where he couldn't put a wheel wrong and handed in a card needing no addition. Technically, Stuart's card was also addition free as there was nothing to add to the 1 he collected in the third round. Richard Sharp improved all the way from fourth on Sunday to third with a grand total of 2 and Paul Price kept things orderly (or ordinaly) by collecting a sum total of 3 and coming fourth. Andrew was fifth on 5 having dropped 4 on 6 in 1. Bryan was sixth, he didn't improve on his Sunday finish but his points total was good enough to give him the cumulative win over the two days trialing.

Bob Packham was an excellent seventh - top live axle and Blue Class winner with Chris Hodgson an equally excellent eighth just a point behind on 11, and once again R@@&!£ Class winner.

Manic Laughter and General Tomfoolery

There were numerous contenders for the Trophy, after all it was a beautiful day, nobody flipped – mentally or otherwise, the Butty Van had tea which tasted like tea and fabulous bacon and banger bars what else is there in life?
. . . apart from that.

And as Alan & Hillary and Colin & Jim both picked up awards for B and C Class respectively its Neville and Claire Collett who raise the virtual trophy aloft.

Side – Coin

Having started out highlighting the differences between the performances on the two days there were those who plumped for consistency – or had it plumped upon them.

Both George Watson and John Cole collected a big chunk of their total on one hill but finished a smidgin better than Sunday.

Andy Mac should definitely have 12 knocked off his total – that 5 on my hill was obviously a leaf in the fuel filter, although I am drinking his beer as I write this. I can only repeat what I said about Mike Storrar in the last report – it will happen. Maybe some ‘stick-on’ flames on the bonnet or a smaller steering wheel. It was particularly good to see Mike Readings circulating and at Colston’s particularly. I got the impression that the car wasn’t helping him out . . . I should have asked. John Adamson’s highlight must have been the clear on Hill 1. Your clutch might not think so! How about having your left leg shortened?

The May Two Day was a fabulous couple of days trialling and this event can be recommended without reservation to anybody who wants to come and enjoy this sport.

Special Mention

- Peter Fensom for 28 clears
- Bob Packham best live axle
- Colin Davidson a solid weekend
